Task

To develop a web application for the administration of various customers' sales reports. After importing and controlling, these figures should be transferred into BW. The data originates from text files or is sent via an IDOC. The web application should enable the maintenance of the sales data, as well as the material and customer master data.

Implementation

PIKON was called in as a project resource to take some of the workload off their in-house developers. The concept was almost complete and the remaining workload consisted of developing the web application.

We used SAP's Web Application Server 6.20 as the platform. The application was developed using BSP and ABAP objects. The designs were created in UML.
